

About Alice Salomon University of Applied Science

The Alice Salomon University of Applied Sciences (ASH), Berlin, looks back over a long tradition:

- In 2008 the ASH celebrated the 100th birthday.
- The name of Alice Salomon was given to the school in 1991, since the history of the institution is closely linked with her life and work as well as with the development of social work in Germany.
- In 1908 Alice Salomon (1872 – 1948) founded the “Social School for Women” (whose two-year program became a model for the establishment of other schools and greatly influenced the development of social work in Germany).
- With the start of the Nazi dictatorship, the Social School for Women dismissed Jewish members and abandoned its emancipatory orientation and focus on social justice.
- Alice Salomon was expelled from Germany in 1937.
- After liberation from the Nazi dictatorship, the school was able to take up its work once again in June of 1945 (drawing on its training program from the 1920s and looking to democratic US-American models for guidance).
- Over the last 20 years, the ASH extended its social work profile to include study programs of early childhood education and health care professionals (nursing, physiotherapy and occupational therapy).

Digitization, Artificial Intelligence and Responsibility of Sciences

24th International Summer School June 25 to July 01, 2022 Berlin

The Europe Institute for Social and Health Research in Berlin proudly presents the preliminary program of 2022's 24th International Summer School.

Under the headline "Digitization, Artificial Intelligence and Responsibility of Sciences", we would like to invite you - BA and MA students and professional of social work, health care and public health - to share your experiences and thoughts on the current topic.

Digitization, Artificial Intelligence and Responsibility of Sciences

Through interesting workshops about the main topic you get the chance to link practice and theory in a more diverse way, and with people from all over Europe, maybe even from all around the globe.

Organized by students for students (and professionals) this year's summer school will have an international focus. Professionals from different countries all over the world give you the chance to dig deeper into questions concerning Digitization, Artificial Intelligence and Responsibility of Sciences.

Program and timeline

You find the preliminary program online

Target Audience

Where you are from or how old you are does not matter. However, please note that we do not offer funding.

Therefore the main target group are social work, health care and public health students (or students from similar disciplines).

Number of Participants

This year's program will admit up to 50 participants.

Certificate and ECTS Credits

Every participant will receive 5 ECTS credits for taking part in this year's International Summer School. In order to receive the Certificate of Attendance this year, students are required to write a 1.500 – 2.000 word paper discussing the main headline.

Please find the guidelines for your controversy paper online.

The paper should be submitted in advance and fulfill the standards of academic writing.

An English level B2 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) is recommended.

Course Fees and Visa

Course Fees are 300 Euro.

The fees for students from our partner universities would amount 200 Euro. For more information please refer to the website of the Alice Salomon Hochschule.

Accommodation, free coffee, tea and table water during the workshops, sight seeing, welcome and farewell party, field visits, as well as highly professional workshop-leaders are included.

If you need help concerning visa, please contact us.

Ukrainian students who want to participate are free of charge.

Concerning Accommodation

The fees for the International Summer School 2022 at ASH include an accommodation-fee.

All participants will stay with students from ASH in order to support an exchange with locals.
